Jeffrey Gordon's practice focuses on complex commercial litigation and insurance coverage litigation. Jeff frequently represents insurers in property and liability coverage matters and represents both plaintiffs and defendants in commercial and contractual disputes.

Jeff entered the practice of law after a successful career in political advocacy. Prior to law school, he served as Field Director for a national health care interest group to achieve federal policy objectives for health care consumers. Jeff has managed winning congressional campaigns in Ohio and California, successful state legislative campaigns in Virginia and Colorado, and served as a legislative aide to Congresswoman Lois Capps on Capitol Hill. During law school, Jeff served as Senior Editor of the Boston College Law Review.
