

Commercial Litigation and Intellectual Property

Zelle attorneys have also defended pharmaceutical and medical device manufacturers in a variety of commercial litigation and intellectual property lawsuits, including:

- The successful defense of patent infringement, theft of trade secrets, tortious interference, and breach of fiduciary duty claims against a medical device manufacturer;
- The summary dismissal of multi-million dollar business tort claims against an international biopharmaceutical company; and
- The defense of a pharmaceutical company against claims for breach of licensing agreement governing the company's rights to manufacture, sell, and distribute over-the-counter drugs in the U.S. and abroad.