

Financial Services Class Action Litigation

PRACTICE CONTACTS

- James Robertson Martin
- Christopher T. Micheletti
- Dan Millea

Zelle's financial services team has significant experience defending national financial services institutions in class action litigation. We have successfully defended clients against claims including breach of fiduciary duty, breach of contract, and consumer claims. Our lawyers have the class action experience, knowledge base, and tenacity to ensure our clients receive efficient and skilled representation on their most challenging matters. Zelle's financial services team recently successfully defended a class action brought against a large bank involving claims of breach of fiduciary duty, breach of contract, and violations of a state consumer protection statute.